Did you know?

The colour orange was actually named after oranges.

Before oranges arrived in England in the late 15th century, there was no word for the colour. It was referred to as geolucrog (yellow-saffron), or geolurēad (yellow-red) depending on the shade.

Some insects and small birds see the world in slow motion.

This is because they can take in more information per second than other, larger animals. It allows them to move rapidly and with precision, which is vital to escape from predators.

They process information so quickly that they perceive time as though it was in slow motion.

Tears contain a natural painkiller, which reduces pain and improves your mood.

The explanation comes down to the fact that emotional tears contain endorphins, which are our body's natural painkillers and mood improvers.

This week marks the 150th anniversary of the dedication of Saint Patrick's Cathedral, Armagh, and includes the unveiling of a new icon which has been written by Sister Angela of the Redemptoristine Community Drumcondra, Dublin.

Sister Angela explains her writing of the icon in the following way: "Saint Patrick, Enlightener of Ireland, stands with his hand raised in the gesture of blessing. He holds the Cathedral of Armagh cradled in his arm in a gesture of protection, symbolic of his vocation as special intercessor for the people of Ireland and the Archdiocese of Armagh.

The Shamrock, distinctive sign associated with Saint Patrick, recalls the divine life and the Union of the Trinity into which we are called to participate.

The lamb's wool pallium, is a symbol of the service of authority – the yoke of Christ which is easy and its burden light.

Green is the colour of hope, newness of life. Saint Patrick brings the light of Christ to a people who dwelt in darkness (Isaiah 9:2). In iconography it often denotes where life begins. New life begins in Christ.

Saint Brigid is clothed in her monastic veil and cloak with a red mantle, the colour of love and vitality and sacrifice. She and Saint Malachy are pillars of faith and examples for those seeking to follow Christ.

Saint Malachy's blue robe denotes the mystic life, and recalls the visions and miracles attested to him."

The marking of the 150th anniversary of the dedication of the cathedral will conclude this Sunday, 27 August 2023, with Cardinal Timothy Dolan, Archbishop of New York, as the chief celebrant for a Mass of Thanksgiving in Saint Patrick's, Armagh.
